Monthly Breakfast/Lunch Safety Moments –

March – New One Call Updates March 8th Neeley Duran – Take Aways

April – Possibly Assignar (need to get topics/information for the training; examples: how technology is changing the industry, specific safety topics, etc.); Miscommunication with Safety Committee about April topic; Assignar will be teaching/meeting – the committee's drop object suggestion with Val will be postponed until a month opens up; Next month's Safety Lunch, Tentatively scheduled for April 12th – dropped object protection – Dave recommended Val at Colorado Safety Supply, possibly at Pinkard's office. He will follow up on this and get back to you to confirm. We also talked about the fact that the topic of dropped object is a light topic, so Mark suggested that we add a mini roundtable session regarding struck-by, discussing the different potential hazards that we face on the sites, such as traffic, equipment, materials, etc.

May – Possibly Alliance Insurance (specific comments/questions have come up from the membership on Insurance and various related topics); There was a miscommunication with the Safety Committee on the May agenda; Alliance Insurance will be using one of their topics for a meeting/luncheon; The discussion from the committee for the May topic will be postponed for an open month; We talked about the insurance topic planned for May's safety lunch and Mark suggested that we expand on the Risk Management topic beyond what we hear from the Alliance Insurance meeting. I suggested that Mark put together a write-up that he share with you to load up on the website as a safety tidbit which might better encapsulate the topic of risk management from his years of experience in the industry. We're not sure risk management can be fully communicated in a single safety moment meeting, which is why I thought having some best practices or the like available in writing could be beneficial for our members.

Also, we thought that the new demo saw technology might be a better topic for May (if possible) and push the insurance topic for June. I mentioned that I would confirm with you in case you had already made commitments with Alliance Insurance. I didn't want to step on your toes regarding the schedule.
